

EDUCATION HISTORY

Masters in South Asian Studies
Graduate Certificate in Digital Textual Studies
University of Washington (UW) 2024 - 2026

My research examines the intersection of language, writing, and identity in India. My final papers focused on script reform efforts in Indian languages triggered by the introduction of typewriters, and the development of linguistic nationalism in Kannada.

ACADEMIC AWARDS

Fellowships
Frank F Conlon Fellowship, 2024 - '25 $7500

Scholarships
Indian American Community Services (IACS) scholarship, 2024 - '25 $3500

Awards
Runner Up, Graduate Student Category, UW Textual Studies Annual Awards '26 $750

Travel Grants
UW South Asia Center Travel Grant, '24 $200
UW South Asia Center Travel Grant, '25 $200
University of British Columbia, Conference Grant, '26 $200

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Script Encoding Initiative, UC Berkeley June 2025 – Sept 2025
Research Intern

- Conducted secondary research on the relationship between writing technology, script, and modernity, with a focus on Indic writing systems such as Devanagari and Malayalam.
- Wrote a blog post titled Typewriters, Script, and Modernity in India on the institution website documenting my research findings and process, and my collaboration with the team.

Typotheque July 2020 – Aug 2024
Research Consultant

- Analyzed the typographic evolution of Indian scripts through archival material and language policy documentation and conducted sociolinguistic research on preferences in writing system usage.
- Worked with type designers to guide the development of proprietary fonts for Devanagari, Malayalam, Urdu, and Meitei, and wrote detailed research reports narrating the typographic history and evolution of Devanagari, Malayalam, and Urdu.

Freelance March 2019 – Aug 2024
Independent Researcher/Writer

- Wrote over 16 widely read essays in notable magazines and publications on language identity and history in India in collaboration with editors, academics, public figures, and community activists.
- Actively participated in public-facing scholarship by translating academic research into highly engaging and readable long form narrative writing.

PUBLICATIONS

Digital Humanities

Where Do Indian-Language Books at UW Come From? — GitHub R, Leaflet.
Analyzed a dataset of over 11,000 Indian-language books in the UW library system to visualize books by language by year of publication, and publication location with cities weighted in color and size by book number.

Washington State Counties With Indigenous Language Names — GitHub R, Leaflet.
Created an interactive map highlighting Washington state counties with names derived from Indigenous languages of the region, overlaid on county boundaries.

Selected Public Writing

Exploring Jotirao Phule's Place in Modern Marathi Literature The Caravan, Oct '22
Victory City, essay on heritage and identity in Bijapur, Karnataka fiftytwo.in, Jan '23
Girish Karnad & Karnataka's Multilingual Literary Heritage Newslandry, Jan '19
Dialect Variation In Tulu Deccan Herald, Jan '20

PRESENTATIONS

Single File: Typewriters and Script Reform in Indian Language Planning May '26
South Asia Conference of the Pacific Northwest, University of British Columbia

Mechanized Type and Modernity in Indian Literary Culture May '26
South Asia Center Graduate Symposium, University of Washington

Capturing Script Dynamism: The Indic Case Nov '25
Unicode Technical Workshop, Unicode Consortium

Malayalam Script Reform: Modernity and Technology May '25
South Asia Center Graduate Symposium, University of Washington

Indic Script Policy & Planning in the Digital Age Oct '24
Unicode Technical Workshop, Unicode Consortium

MEMBERSHIPS

Digital Humanities Reading & Research Cluster Co-Organizer '25-'26
Simpson Center for the Humanities, University of Washington

PROGRAMMING LANGUAGES & LIBRARIES

R (dplyr, Leaflet, ggplot), Python (pandas, spaCy, Stanza), XML (TEI).

NON-ENGLISH READING ABILITY

Hindi, Kannada, Tamil, Urdu, Malayalam.